

innocence reached

yes we can look forward to death it restores our innocence beyond anything one can assign to childhood a new opening outward when time becomes history and history nothingness for the universe gives up nothing and waits eternally for new transformations even the mind of god is a spectator of an unknowable end but as an astronaut feels in space when roared into new wonders o victory of before and after where birth and life are deaths compared to where you came from